Global Guardian offers comprehensive, best-in-class travel medical support and transportation services. Medical problems are an ever-present danger for overseas travelers. Travelers frequently experience medical issues when abroad and often need urgent care. In some cases, hospitalization or medical evacuation is required. Global Guardian ensures that clients are always able to quickly access high-quality medical care globally.

Global Guardian supports its clients with proprietary aeromedical transportation membership plans. Unlike traditional ‘insurance’ programs, these plans are simple to use and are not loaded with exclusions and carve outs. Instead, Global Guardian’s individual, family and corporate programs provide up to 2 no-cost aeromedical transports per year per person. These transports originate from the initial treating hospital, either domestic or foreign, and end at the receiving hospital of client choosing, giving the traveler ultimate decision about how and were they are treated.

Global Guardian provides tailored solutions for any emergency medical situation. The company offers 24-hour remote access to medical advice and evaluation by US-based, board certified emergency attending physicians for clients who experience illness or injury while traveling. These physicians will consult with the patient, diagnose their condition and oversee self care using over the counter or prescription medications. If local treatment is necessary, our doctors will direct patients to vetted local facilities and treatment providers and actively coordinate and manage patient care remotely.

Global Guardian offers travel medical kits customized by traveler. Following a brief medical intake interview, our physicians prescribe a suite of commonly needed travel-centric medications and packages them with a host of over-the-counter medications and first aid supplies into a small and easily accessible travel medical kit. Our physicians are then available at all times to aid travelers in the use of these medications and supplies as needed with the goal of keeping client travelers out of foreign hospitals and allowing them to complete their travel with the least possible disruption from medical issues.
Timely and accurate intelligence about the conditions that personnel will face when traveling overseas is a vital part of a sound security management program. The more specific such intelligence is to the geographical area, people, events, and assets involved, the more useful it is as a basis for anticipating and avoiding potential threats.

Global Guardian recognizes that different members of a client organization consume intelligence in different ways and therefore have different requirements. An executive traveler typically needs a concise, easy to use document that supports his or her specific itinerary. A client security manager or senior executive evaluating the risk profile of a country, on the other hand, requires much more granularity and a different approach to information collection and distribution. By segmenting the consumers of our intelligence products, Global Guardian can provide each the level of detail and type of information they need while avoiding the common practice of overwhelming users with excessive information.

Global Guardian supports client travelers with both a high-level security and safety overview and detailed country and city reporting for each stop on their itinerary to ensure they are prepared to operate safely wherever they travel. Travelers also receive itinerary specific real-time safety and security alerts throughout each travel period.

Global Guardian supports its clients with a unique and innovative travel and business intelligence capability. Anchored by its team of experienced analysts, open source internet and social media data mining capability, local security teams, and in-country researchers, Global Guardian can produce highly customized, current, and client-specific intelligence reports as well as ongoing real-time intelligence monitoring.

Global Guardian’s domestic and international staff conducts a wide range of due diligence and background investigation projects. Such projects include traditional open source research, advanced social media data mining and analysis, and in-person investigative and diligence activities globally.

Global Guardian produces highly customized intelligence and research projects for its clients. Tailored exactly to client request, such projects seek to answer specifics about the countries, regions, cities, or specific neighborhoods that are relevant to client operations. Global Guardian’s analyst staff works with its in-country resources to provide precise and actionable information that can aid in client decision making.
Global Guardian has robust emergency aviation capabilities. Relying on a global network of owned and brokered aircraft, Global Guardian provides options for immediate emergency evacuation of personnel and equipment and complicated non-emergency aviation needs.

For both emergency and routine requirements, Global Guardian’s aviation team provides a range of remote access and rotary wing solutions to get client personnel and equipment in and out of isolated or hard to reach areas around the world.

Global Guardian’s aviation team has access to a wide range of aircraft types and can arrange aviation support to meet any need on short notice. Aircraft are staged across the globe, cutting response and repositioning times and providing clients access to the right assets when needed.

Our expertise in navigating the international permit process paired with our access to an enormous variety of aircraft options allows Global Guardian to move staff and material where they are needed, when they are needed.

Clients requiring traditional cargo transport support and heavy lift aviation capability can rely on Global Guardian to provide tailored and cost-effective solutions on any timeline. Following conflict or natural disaster, Global Guardian assists clients in moving personnel, equipment, and supplies in or out of areas in need.

CHARTER & EMERGENCY EVACUATION

REMOTE ACCESS & ROTARY WING

CARGO, HEAVY LIFT & RELIEF

EMERGENCY & CUSTOM AVIATION
Global Guardian’s cyber team provides both traditional protective cyber security solutions and reactive emergency response capabilities to address known or suspected security breaches.

Penetration Testing
Global Guardian provides penetration testing and has the skills, knowledge, and industry experience to test client information security end-to-end. Its cyber security team provides assessment services for external and internal network security testing, web and mobile applications, and wireless networks. All penetration testing can also be supported by physical security assessments of client facilities.

Operational Security
Operational Security is a vital component of IT security. Without it, technology implementations and security measures will not succeed in protecting information. Global Guardian helps its clients implement proper operational security procedures and acquire the knowledge and tools to proactively maintain and protect their networks.

Vulnerability Management
Many recent information security breaches resulted from exploitation of known vulnerabilities for which there are proven mitigations. Global Guardian can work with organization to manage these vulnerabilities and help avoid problems before they arise. Global Guardian also provides IT purchasing management system consultation, a process that routinely leads to long-term cost savings by limiting unnecessary equipment replacement and software upgrades.

Device Hardening
Global Guardian assists clients in the hardening of their employees’ phones, tablets, and laptop computers for international travel. Doing so protects against unwanted intrusion and data compromise if devices are lost, stolen, or deliberately targeted, and helps clients protect their proprietary and personal information.

Penetration Testing
